

Dubbed “The Master of Networking,” Derek Dickow connects people to opportunity.

His decades of experience in the business, political and charitable worlds have garnered him high-level connections all around the globe. Derek founded his own political consulting company and has helped dozens of lawmakers around the country get elected. He’s been a political consultant, businessman and philanthropist. When Derek isn’t speaking on stages all around the world, you can find him on his wakeboard, yoga mat, or spending time with his family.

He’s excited to share his 5-part systematic approach to relationship building and help you create your own purposeful connections.

Everyone, please welcome Derek Dickow!
